STIRRING APPEALS MADE FOR AUBURN AT MASS MEETING HELD AT MASONIC

Pledges Are Given of Support

MARGARET CLARKSON
CAPTURES AUDIENCE

Local Artist Plays On The Heartstrings Of Her
Hearers Here

A stirring appeal by Joel F. Webb in behalf of Auburn, himself an Auburn man, a logical, convincing statement of the fact as to the needs of Auburn by Vassar Allen, also an Auburn man and ex-instructor in that institution, and an eloquent educational evangelistic plea by Dr. Charles Currens, whose home is in Mobile, featured the business division of the Masonic theatre meeting last night. The feature of entertainment was furnished by Margaret Clarkson, of New York, and her home cities, Albany and Decatur. Miss Clarkson sang first a classic selection, and in response to a vigorous encore sang "Yesterday and Today," a love song. Local pride in Miss Clarkson's artistic attainments were heightened considerably by her beautiful numbers of last night, and those fortunate enough to hear her feel that they owe her a personal debt of gratitude for the pleasure she gave them. Mrs. Herbert Odum played the accompaniments for the singer. J. W. Clifton presided over the meeting, and spoke appreciatively of the kindness of H. B. Cagle in giving the theatre free of charge. Seated on the platform were Messrs. Allen, Webb and Currens, the distinguished visitors, A. G. Harris, Dr. C. C. Davidson and Professors Cowart and Benson. The last two pledged their support to the Auburn claims for $1,000,000 public subscription in Alabama, and a million from the state educational funds.

Webb Speaks
Joel F. Webb was the first to speak. He recalled days at Auburn with A. G. Harris, as one of his college mates. He will be remembered as a frequent visitor here in the interests of the late lamented Judge Samuel D. Weakley. Mr. Webb showed an intimate knowledge of Auburn's needs and presented them in an impressive manner. Vassar Allen, than whom there is scarcely a more entertaining and resourceful speaker anywhere, showed by facts and figures that education is a moral support and that it is not true that the wiser men get the weaker they are. From his full experience as an attorney, this speaker showed criminals were in the greater part from the ignorant, and he showed also that of women who had fallen, according to careful statistics, about 65 per cent were those who have not gone through the third readers in school, and that the other 35 per cent came from those classes that had not finished the high school courses. Twenty-one cents is the whole amount per citizen paid to Auburn in Alabama, according to Mr. Allen. Georgia pays five times as much to her technical college, as we pay to Auburn; South Carolina four times as much, and Mississippi twice as much. The speaker said that Birmingham raised $25,000,000 to fight the Germans, and that it was money well spent, but that that city had taken a quota of only $300,000 for Auburn, one-eighth part of $25,000,000, the large amount was spent for destructive purposes, the small amount is sought for constructive purposes.

"When we get that vast development to the west of you and I sincerely trust Henry Ford gets Muscle Shoals—you will need literally thousands of trained people to take care of the situation," said Mr. Allen.

Dr. Currens proved highly enthusiastic when he made his plea for Auburn. He said Boston Tech got $8,000,000, Georgia Tech $1,000,000, and that he understood Auburn was about as far below Georgia Tech, in support, as Georgia was below Boston! He said Tuskegee school had better buildings for their Jersey cows, than the

SOUTHERN VIEW ON TARIFF QUESTION IS SUBJECT OF ROW IN SENATORIAL CIRCLE

Southern Tariff Association Joins Forces With Agricultural Bloc

SENATOR HARRISON
ANSWERS GODDING

Declares Administration Must Pay For Its Blunder
On Tariff

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Southern Tariff Association joined forces today with the Republican agricultural bloc to secure higher rates on a number of agricultural products than those provided by a Republican majority in control of the senate finance committee in the new permanent tariff bill.

Following a conference he had with John Kirby, Texas oil and lumber man and president of the association, Senator Godding, Republican of Idaho, chairman of the bloc, declared that he was convinced "that 90 per cent of the people of the South were in favor of a protective tariff on agricultural products" and that Southern Democratic senators "did not represent the tariff sentiment of their constituents."

Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, was among the Democratic leaders who were quick to accept the challenge of Godding that Southern Democratic senators did not represent their people in their opposition to the bill.

"This administration has done a number of things and has failed to do many more after promising at the last election that they would be done. The administration's failure will be reflected in large Democratic majorities this year, but the tariff bill, secretly framed by Republicans behind the closed doors of the senate finance committee, will put the finishing touches to the disaster awaiting the Republican party. It is by far the worst tariff bill that has ever been proposed. Previous tariff bills brought about the defeat of the Republican party in the elections which followed their enactment. The new tariff bill will cause political history to repeat itself," Senator Harrison declared.

BIG NAVY MEN ARE 'JUBILANT' TODAY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 12.—Big navy men were jubilant today over the brightening chances in the house of adopting the $6,000 navy program instead of the $7,000 proposed by the appropriations committee.

It is apparent that with the open endorsement of the big navy by Secretary of State Hughes the full weight of the administration has been thrown upon the scales in favor of the 5-5-3 treaty navy, with American ships fully manned and of highest efficiency.

While refraining from public comment, President Harding has told his house friends, it is stated, that he desires the $6,000 navy. He believes that a navy stronger and weaker than this would not be a treaty navy and would lose prestige for the United States.

Representative Longworth is understood to have carried a message to house leaders today to this effect.

ROAD BUILDING PLANS UP

SATISFACTORY BID FOR BOND ISSUE IS SOUGHT BY BOARD AS BUILDING MOVE

Highway Program of County Approaches One Step Nearer
Wednesday

MANY BIDDERS ATTEND
SESSION OF THE COURT

Expenditure of $400,000 Would Relieve Much Unemployment in Morgan

Morgan county's road building plan this afternoon was approaching a step nearer toward realization.

The board of revenue was in session at the court house with a large number of bond buyers and contractors attending the session of the court. At today's session it was hoped to find a satisfactory bid for the $400,000 worth of county bonds, authorized to be issued by the voters at an election last year.

According to a plan adopted by the board some time ago it was decided to make an effort to dispose of the bonds direct to contractors at par, paying them for completed work with the bonds.

However, a number of bond buyers have shown a decided interest in the proposed issue and the court will have a number of offers for the bonds.

The expenditure of $400,000 or more in the county in road building this year would give employment to a large number of unemployed and persons interested in the project are anxious to see work started as soon as possible.

The county plans to connect the entire county with a network of good roads. The work being undertaken by the county is in addition to that planned by the state, with federal aid. The county roads will connect with the state roads in every instance, giving the county when all of the road projects are finished, one of the best systems of good roads in the South.

RACE CLASHES IN ANNISTON SHOPS

ANNISTON, Ala., April 12.—Two thousand white moulders are idle in this city today following a series of demonstrations against negro moulders at the Rudisill pipe plant. Five hundred white men went to the plant Wednesday and chased the negro laborers into the hills. An effort on the part of the Rudisill company to operate the old Eastham plant with exclusive negro laborers caused a similar demonstration Monday, while all of the plants in the city were idle throughout Tuesday.

Several of the negro moulders were beaten by the white men Wednesday and trouble is feared unless there can be an immediate settlement arranged.

SERVICE OF SALESMANSHIP IS SUBJECT OF FAMOUS SPEAKER

Pryor Irwin Declares "Human Element"
In Retail Establishments Vitally Important

In the second of his series of addresses at the chamber of commerce rooms last night Pryor Irwin, of the Retail Service Institute of Chicago, drew special attention to the duties and opportunities of the sales people behind the counters, and in an attractive and entertaining manner urged the importance of right relations between customers and business firms.

He declared that no matter how attractively the local paper might play up an advertisement of goods for sale, if the appeal of the advertisement was not backed up at the store, "all was vanity and vexation of spirit."

Mr. Irwin chose as his subject: "The Service of Salesmanship," and opened his address by relating what an appeal a certain advertisement once made to him. He said he went into a certain city and noticed a legend, reading: "No ship is a good ship that does not have a good crew." The philosophy of the display was plain, said Mr. Irwin: "No matter how much money a firm may have, how well they advertise or how large their stocks, unless the human element of their store is right, their ship of business is in danger of going on the rocks of failure."

In the first place, Mr. Irwin said that immediately a customer entered a store, the sales people should seek to establish right relations, that a right kind of approach was absolutely necessary. Second, he said that a salesman or saleslady should know the stock thoroughly, should be an authority on it from every standpoint, and able to impress the customer, as to that knowledge. Sales people should also be able to win and hold the confidence of customers.

Creative Salesmanship
Mr. Irwin said there was a vast difference between exchanging goods for money and in what he called "creative salesmanship." He made it plain that customers should not be "led" as to their wants, too much, and that by all means what the customer asked for should be provided at once; but that the clerks, should have valuable and reasonable information as to what the season is demanding, or would demand in the near future, and this should be imparted to the customer for his own consideration and judgment.

The fourth point made by the speaker was concerning the importance of making customers permanent. He said that just as the approach to the customer was important, so also was final conversation and associations important, as last impressions in salesmanship, were quite as lasting as first impressions.

Tonight Mr. Irwin will speak on "Advertising and Display." This subject, of the highest importance to the public is expected to be heard by a large crowd.

Dry Plans Are Given Set-Back

(International News Service.)
WASHINGTON, April 12.—Plans of prohibition enforcement officers to make the New York-Canadian border a widespread battle front, bristling with armored cars, machine guns and rifles, to prevent rum smuggling, may be cancelled by higher up orders, it was learned today.

The state department was somewhat concerned today over the latest dry plans, fearing that serious international complication may follow any promiscuous shooting along the border.

CONGRESS ASKED TO TAKE SOME ACTION TO OPEN BOOKS FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION

Representative Beck Appears
Before the House Labor Committee

OPERATORS' PROFITS
CONCEALED, HE SAYS

Miners Officials Denies Organization Has Launched Propaganda Campaign

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Charging that the public is being subjected to outrageous profiteering at the hands of coal operators, Representative Beck, Republican of Wisconsin, appeared today before the house labor committee and demanded that congress take action to throw open to public inspection all the income and excess profits taxes of coal operators and dealers.

This would reveal, Beck said, the extortionate profits made by the operators and dealers, who he charged with responsibility for the existing nation-wide strike.

"I urge this action because, as you know, the coal operators have put out the eyes of the government by securing injunctions forbidding the federal trade commission to inquire into coal costs and profits as directed by congress. The only possible inference is that the coal companies have taken this action to conceal their profits, because they dare not allow them to become public," Beck declared.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The accusation that coal operators have launched a campaign of propaganda to put the cause of striking miners in a bad light before the public was made here today by Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America. At the same time it was learned that the representative of the anthracite miners have demanded that the operators produce their books and payrolls to prove their contention that the granting of the men's wage demands would increase the cost of production $170,000,000 annually.

NOTED LECTURER TO SPEAK HERE

Mr. Barber will speak here under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association and the lecture is free.

Mr. Barber's message is said to be vitally interesting and it is expected he will be heard by a large crowd.

WE FAVOR ACCEPTANCE OF HENRY FORD'S BID FOR MUSCLE SHOALS.

THE ROAD PROGRAM.

One can hardly estimate the good which will accrue to the county by the letting and completion of the 65 miles of well constructed highways which will be built this summer. The roads contemplated in the new project touch portions of the county which have hitherto not benefited by good roads. The extension of those already constructed and the entirely new projects contemplated will add to the roadways of the county bringing it well forward in the list of the more favored counties of the state.

It is understood that a large number of bidders are here to bid on the new stretches of road which will be let Wednesday.

The state highway commission has in charge the completion of the Bee Line highway south from Hartselle. All other projects which will be let at this time are strictly a county affair, and will be built with the $440,000 of bonds for road construction which was voted more than a year ago. When the new projects are completed practically all the schools of the county will be in close proximity to a good system of highways which will make it easy for the school children to go to and from the different schools of the county.

Aside from this feature of the new road building scheme, the farmers of the county will be benefited more than can at this time be computed in dollars and cents. They will thereby be enabled to transport their farm produce to market at a much less cost, save the wear and tear on their rolling stock, and be enabled to get a higher percent net profit from the sale of their farm produce, because it will cost less to market it. Community life will also be greatly augmented, for at all times during the year those of the rural districts will be enabled to attend church, school functions, etc. Neighborhood social life will also receive a great impetus also. It is the greatest beginning the county has undertaken, on broad well constructed lines.

THE FARMER IN POLITICS.

In the Saturday Evening Post of April 8th, there is some editorial discussion of the outlook in the farming industry, from which we quote the following:

Relief for the farmer would come in a measure if the whole structure of prices and wages could be more evenly and thoroughly shaken down. But fundamentally there must be greater demand for his produce. That, in turn, depends upon export trade and international finance, both of which involve numerous complicated questions and the entire problem of world recovery.

Organization on the part of the farmer might help to remove these obstacles, but there is no short cut back to Eden. Specifically, organization accomplishes next to nothing when it consists of the citizens' reliance upon the state vaguely to do something for him which can best be accomplished by himself.

This opinion of the Saturday Evening Post is very pertinent to the present course of the so-called "Agricultural Bloc" in Congress. The majority of the members of this bloc may be sincere. But it is quite evident that this agricultural bloc is largely a Republican bloc, and while they oppose the program of the Republican party at many points, they can see no salvation for the farmer except along standard Republican lines.

They have seen the manufacturing industry enriched by a protective tariff, which placed a trade barrier around the United States. They reason, therefore, that they can enrich the farmer by the same process. They propose to fence off America from the rest of the world, and fatten the farmer on the home market.

They do not take into account the fundamental difference between the farming industry and all other industries. They ignore the fact that what may be a sword in the hand of one industry may be a halberd around the neck of another industry. It is not true that the farmer can use a protective tariff for his benefit as a manufacturer or a coal miner can, and the reason for this conclusion is obvious.

The farming industry of America is equipped and geared for a world market. Our own people cannot consume the produce raised on American farms. The farming industry is not elastic like the manufacturing business, and it cannot be made so. The manufacturers could prevent a glut of the home market by cutting down production, or even suspending operations, any month or any day in the year.

Can the farmer do this? He knows that he cannot. Let us take the case of a manufacturer who sets out to make 100,000 farm wagons in a year. Suppose, when he has made half that number, that is to say, when his schedule is half completed, he finds the market is about to be overstocked, and he decides to quit. What are his losses? It is manifest that he sustains no loss on the half of his proposed output he has abandoned. He simply curtails production, saves his market, maintains his prices, and sustains no loss except the mythical loss on the wagons he did not make, and did not begin to make.

Now take the case of a farmer who has started to raise 1,000 barrels of corn. Suppose, when his crop is half raised, he sees impending a glut in the corn market and decides to cut his crop in half. Will any genius explain how the farmer can do this without a ruinous loss? Is it not a fact that the 500 barrels he abandons has already cost him exactly as much as the 500 barrels he is going to finish to maturity?

It would seem that the Fordney emergency tariff should have been sufficient to demonstrate to the farmer the worthlessness of the tariff as a panacea for the farm. If this lesson has taught him nothing, he is hard to learn. He cannot thrive on the market alone. He cannot keep up an artificial price in America, so long as he has a surplus that must be consumed in the world market. No man-made law can evade the laws of reason and the rules of nature.

There is no other American industry so inextricably bound up in the rehabilitation of the world as the agricultural industry, and no tariff can foster an industry that has not sufficient elasticity to gauge its output to the protection the tariff affords. The high tariff for the farmer is a snare and a delusion. The other industries favored under its provisions can regulate their business to rob the farmer, but there is no way he can regulate his business to gain tariff protection. He raises a surplus, and that surplus places him beyond the reach of any aid from the tariff. That surplus will fix the price of his home market, and the price for that surplus is fixed in the open markets of the world, where it must be sold.—Nashville Tennessean.

TAKING PLANT FOOD DIRECT FROM THE AIR.

The bigness of the Muscle Shoals enterprise first of all bases on the outstanding fact, that the whole gigantic business is a scheme to get something out of nature's well filled storehouse. And because this "something," is plant food, makes it indeed a vital subject, for first and last the animal kingdom of which we are a part is directly dependent on plant life or the vegetable kingdom for existence.

As long as the virgin soil held out, and wheat yields to the acre kept up to high standard, there was little thought about increasing plant foods; but now as the comparatively thin layer of soil is beginning to wear out, it is realized that some means must be devised to hurry matters or else our food supplies will begin to run short one of these fine days. And whereas, once all we had to do was to rear and butcher our cattle, as nature supplied their food wants, now we must begin to feed the fields and meadows, or else they in turn cannot feed our beef cattle.

Nitrogen is the basic plant food, but it comes in such small dribs and drabs from the great storehouse of the air, where 99 1-2 percent of the entire supply is said to be, that some quick means are needed to be found and has been found to extract nitrogen from the air, just as quick means have been resorted to to furnish a large sugar supply. In other words just as we cannot get all the sugar needed by eating nature's fruits so the time has come when we cannot get enough food for plant life unless we distill it from the air, by a chemical change called "fixation".

Nitrogen exists as a gas, but as it cannot be used for plant food in such a form it must be "fixed". This is done by taking nitrogen as gas and subjecting it to great heat and pressure. Electricity alone produces enough heat to "fix" the nitrogen to where farmers can have it mixed with one or two other chemicals and thus make a good plant food as the final result, and that is why the waters of the Tennessee river are to be harnessed—to furnish enough electricity to make the "fixation" of nitrogen possible.

Nature furnishes nitrogen for the vegetable kingdom, brought by the rain drops that bring down nitrous oxide and leave it where the little rootlets can absorb it. And this nitrous oxide is made when the lightning heats the atmosphere so hot that the nitrogen and oxygen combine. It is said, the giant vegetation of pre-historic ages when trees are said by geologists to have grown a quarter of a mile high, and mere ferns a hundred feet high, was made possible in part by the great electric storms and rains of that past age; the electricity "fixing" the nitrogen and the rain drops carrying it to the plants and trees. So, in a word modern "fixation" of nitrogen is an attempt to make "history repeat itself," as regards feeding plant life.

Viewed in this light, it seems men must be very small minded indeed who would stand in the way of such great experimentation. One of man's methods of getting nitrogen where plants can use it is patterned directly after the "thunderstorm method". It is called the Arc process, and consists in an artificial thunder storm, the nitrogen and oxygen being forced to combine by means of a flaming electrical torch, and the nitrous oxide thus formed is carried off by a small stream of water. This process is used in Norway, and commercial fertilizer thus made is shipped to this country. There are at least two other processes for getting a supply of nitrogen said to be more complicated but less expensive, as they do not require nearly so much power. One, or possibly both of these processes, writers state, will be used at Muscle Shoals, if ever that great power of nature is made to help work out a plan whereby we can get a large supply of plant food direct from nature's greatest storehouse—the air.

The continued finding of a fine quality of asphalt in many sections of this county, and in fact all over the Tennessee Valley, brings home the fact that at some time perhaps not in the very far distance here will be a commercializing of this valuable product to place it on the county roads of the state.

As far back as our knowledge of ancient civilization extends asphalt was known by the human race for its very valuable properties as a road builder. In view of the fact of its presence in quantities and of a quality which commend it as a profitable manufacture it would not be surprising if the development would be made during the inauguration of the road building campaigns which are now being projected by the county authorities. At Hartselle just a few days ago new and hitherto unfound beds of asphalt have been discovered in almost unlimited quantities. It is of a rich construction of oil residue, and is nature's product just waiting the hand of the manufacturer to combine it in such proportions as will make of it a valuable find and rich asset to this county.

ARE YOU THIN AND SCRAWNY?

The Bones of the Body Were Not Intended to Show. Cover Them With Flesh

Nobody wants to be called "fat," but even fat people are better off than those unfortunates who are so painfully thin that they have that "scrawny" look. Especially is this true of women. The rounded figure is the figure of health and beauty. If you are too thin you can add solid, firm flesh by taking Gude's Pepto-Mangan with your meals for a few weeks. It will put you in better health and Nature will restore you to your normal weight. Pepto-Mangan itself does not add weight but it does build up health. You won't be thin and scrawny if you are well. By the city editor: "An oasis of news surrounded by a desert of advertising."

Congress says: "The bonus is all right so long as you don't bone us about it."

The hardest time in the world for most people to get up is in the morning.

"The Ghost of Antigoni" would not make such a bad movie title at that. And with all the spirits out in Hollywood it wouldn't be hard to get a case for the production, either.

A Rattling Good Car.

Squire Herman, of Wapakoneta, Ohio, last August looked over his flivver to arrange its pedigree for registration under the new state law. This is the result:

Radiator leaks, body squeaks, hole in the top where the rain comes through. The windshield is broken, wheel lost a spoke, but it hangs together. Tail light is busted, foot-boards are rusted, fenders are loose and rattle like tin. The back got smashed, and the tires are gashed—but it's a darn good car for the shape it's in.

Two can live steeper than one.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Features Service, Inc.

The News That Dicky Brought to Madge.

DID you find her?"

I sprang up from my easy chair in the sitting-room of the hotel suite as Dicky opened the door and came in. To me, chafing under the action which my black eye and discolored forehead had imposed upon me, the hours intervening since Dicky's departure in search of Katie's present whereabouts had seemed an eternity.

Constantly before my eyes was the vision of Lillian contending with the combination of my mother-in-law's broken arm, the conciliation of Mrs. Ticep—whose methods of housekeeping Mother Graham outspokenly disapproved—and the care of Junior, the while her own work loomed mountain-like in the background. I had expected to be gone but a few hours, overnight at the most, and that Dicky would be at Lillian's right hand during my absence. But my bizarre accident had delayed my errand almost twenty-four hours, and had brought Dicky to my side. Every nerve was tingling as I awaited the answer to Dicky's question.

Dicky grinned tantalizingly, and puffed his chest out and thumped it approvingly. "Behold the man who should have taken the message to Garcia if he had been out of the cradle at the time," he said. "Yes, I have found our missing handmaiden, that is, I have discovered where she is at the present moment, and will be for the next two or three hours at least."

"Where?" I sprang up with the tense monosyllable, snatched up my hat, and moved toward the bedroom and the mirror.

"In a cheap restaurant in Brooklyn, near the Long Island station, where she is cooking, I believe. What's the big idea of the quick costume change?"

"Have It Your Own Way."

"Because," I said, adjusting my heavy veil so that it fell over my face, "if we hurry, we may be able to catch that 4 o'clock train back home. We ought not to be away from Mother and Junior another night."

"Granted," Dicky replied with mad-dening masculine imperturbability. "But that's no reason why we shouldn't lunch comfortably here. We'll have plenty of time."

"Dicky!" All the exasperation which his attitude justly demanded was in my tone. "You know better than that! Plenty of time, indeed! When nobody knows where Katie's things are, and how long it will take her to get ready, or anything," I finished lamely.

Resurfacing Work Will Begin Soon

Contract for resurfacing certain streets of Albany, which was let at a recent meeting of the Albany city council is well under way, material being on the road for the work. The top dressing which will be of asphalt was ordered this week, and work will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The work calls for an expenditure of approximately $25,000. The city authorities are determined that the streets shall be put in the best possible condition at the earliest possible moment, and they are due the thanks of the entire citizenship for their activity along this line.

INDIGESTION

Busy Public Official Says Thedford's Black-Draught Helps Him Keep Physically Fit.

Clay City, Ky.—"I have been in business here for twenty-one years; am also coroner, riding the Kentucky hills and hollows in all kinds of weather and under all kinds of conditions," says Mr. Sam T. Carr, of this place. "To be able to do so, I must keep physically fit, and Thedford's Black-Draught is my stand-by."

"These trips used to give me headaches, and that, I found, came from hurried meals or from constipation. I was convinced that Black-Draught was good, so now I use it, and it gives perfect satisfaction. It acts on the liver, relieves indigestion, and certainly is splendid. I am never without it."

When I have a feeling of discomfort after meals, causing a bloating sensation, headache, bad breath, and similar common symptoms, try taking a pinch of Black-Draught after meals—a pinch of the dry powder, washed down with a swallow of water. This has been found to assist the stomach and liver to carry on their normal work, and helps prevent, or relieve constipation.

Your druggist can supply you with this well-known, purely-vegetable liver medicine. Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black Draught liver medicine. NO-137a

"May I ask," Dicky inquired with heavy sarcasm, "just what you do expect to do—lunch at the hash house where Katie is?"

I threw up the smothering veil and faced him determinedly. "That is exactly what I mean to do, if I have time to eat lunch at all. If not, it won't kill either you or me to fast awhile. And as for the hash house, if Katie is cooking there, I fancy we can stand it."

Dicky spread his hands resignedly. "What was it that old guy said about ducking into a corner of a house to rather than sharing a big house with a bawling woman?" he said. "I'll inform the universe he said a whole bill of fare. But have it your own way. I see you have the bags all packed, so I'll go down and pay the bill, and come back for you. But let me tell you something I won't do, and that is—go out with you with that veil swathing your face. Show your black eye, if you have to, but mix on the mysterious-veiled-female disguise."

An Uncomfortable Trip.

He swung out of the door, and I was glad enough of my victory in the larger matter to yield to him in the smaller. But I dreaded infinitely the curious glances which would be my portion when I should again face the outside world.

Dicky returned in a few minutes and glanced at my re-arranged veil with approval.

"That's about as good a draping as can be managed," he said. "But anybody'll kidnap you today for your beauty. And if the cruelty society doesn't nab thankfu, I've got a taxi to take us to the subway, or do you want to go the whole way by machine?"

I shook my head resolutely, although the thought of facing a subway crowd was dismaying.

"We must get there the quickest way," I said.

"Have it your own way," he acquiesced. "I'll stand in front of you, if I can, but I'm afraid it won't help much."

His words were only too true a prophecy. That subway trip will always be a nightmare to me. The car in which we found seats also held several girls of school age, and though I tried to feel aloof and superior, yet I could not help wincing at their frank stares, their amused comments to each other—some of which were plainly audible—and their ecstatic giggling. By the time we had reached our station, and I had followed Dicky to the door of the restaurant where we expected to find Katie I was almost ready for nervous tears.

WOMAN'S PRESBYTERIAL IN SESSION.

The Woman's Presbyterian, of the Huntsville Presbytery, is in session at the Westminster church this week. Delegates arrived Tuesday morning and were served a lunch at the church. The meeting was opened at 2:30 o'clock, the Devotional being led by Mrs. L. F. Goodwin, after which Miss Mary Hutchinson, of Huntsville, the vice president, took charge. Several interesting phases of the work were discussed and the meeting adjourned at 5 o'clock.

The evening session convened at 7:30, when Dr. L. F. Goodwin conducted the Devotional. A vocal solo by Mrs. A. M. Roan, with Mrs. Jackson presiding at the organ, was very much enjoyed and this was followed by a very interesting and instructive talk by Mrs. Graham, of New York, the field secretary of the Woman's Board of Missions, in regard to Missionary work. The meeting closed with prayer. An all-day session is being held today.

Mrs. W. P. McGlawn left Tuesday for Montgomery where she will spend the week-end with her daughter, Miss Marie McGlawn, a student of Woman's college.

Mrs. S. Husk and Miss Carrie Sykes, of Athens, are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Goodwin while attending the Presbyterian in session here.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT.

Mrs. J. H. Alexander and Miss Etha Ashford entertained last evening with a miscellaneous shower for Miss Gartrude Ashford, a bride-elect of this week, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Alexander which was charmingly decorated in ferns, pot plants and baskets of Easter lilies and white roses.

The guest were received by Misses Bessie McKoin and Etha Ashford who ushered them to a cozy corner in the reception hall, where Misses Mildred Wilder and Lorena Ashford served punch from a bank of roses and ferns.

Little Dealvia Alexander received the gifts at the door and placed them in a secret corner. Several piano selections were rendered by Miss Louise Ellner and Mrs. C. E. Sandlin. Miss Erline Holland presided over the bride's recipe book, where each guest wrote a recipe. Miss Ashford was blindfolded and led to the bride's chair by her sister Etha, there she found waiting many useful and beautiful gifts in a pretty white wagon which had been pulled in by little Reed and Roy Thompson.

At a late hour a delicious ice course was served to about forty guests who enjoyed this hospitality.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. A. E. Humphrey entertained the Tuesday Afternoon Bridge club at her home on Jackson street yesterday afternoon.

Besides club members the guests were: Mrs. W. R. Smith and Mrs. Martin Phelan. Mrs. O. C. Parker won the club prize after which a delightful salad course was served.

By using maps and charts, the study was made most interesting and instructive.

Muskellunge Gamest of Fish.

Well named the Tiger of the Fresh Water, the muskellunge is today the most sought after big game-fish of the country. Anglers do not feel that they have graduated in the science of fishing unless they have scored at least one of these giant pike to their credit. Their range is limited to the northern, northeastern and central sections of the country, where they are each year, according to statistics, steadily increasing in numbers. Farm Life says.

Compass on Crossing the Equator.

The compass needle does not turn around in passing from one hemisphere into the other. The north-seeking end of the compass needle has no greater significance or meaning in the southern hemisphere than the south-seeking end of the needle has in the northern hemisphere. The compass needle is a piece of magnetized steel. It has its own positive and negative poles, or north and south poles, just like the earth. The needle and its lines of force align themselves with the earth's lines of force. In the northern hemisphere the north magnetic pole exerts the dominating influence of the needle, so it points to that pole. The south end of the needle is disregarded. In the southern hemisphere the south magnetic pole exerts the dominating influence on the needle and it points to that pole, the north end of the needle in this case being disregarded. The needle does not reverse in going from one hemisphere to another. The south end of it becomes the guide in the southern hemisphere, as the north end is the guide in the northern hemisphere.

Too Crowded. So Daniel Boone was now on his way westward to Missouri, to a new land of fabled herds and wide spaces. Waving his last farewells, he floated past the little groups—till their shouts of good will were long silenced, and his feet swung out upon the Ohio.

As Boone sailed down the beautiful river which forms the northern boundary of Kentucky, old friends and newcomers who had only heard his fame rode from far and near to greet and godspeed him on his way. Sometimes he paused for a day with them. Once at least—this was in Cincinnati where he was taking on supplies—some one asked him why he was leaving the settled country to dare the frontier once more. "Too crowded," he answered; "I want more elbow-room!"—Constance Lindsay Skinner.

Christ's Kingdom at Hand

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die"—Judge Ruthertford

THE MOST MOMENTOUS EVENT OF EARTH'S HISTORY is the near establishment of God's kingdom among men; but, strange to say, this dominating theme of the Bible has been almost entirely overlooked by those who profess the Christian religion. Every one of the inspired writers testified concerning a time of everlasting happiness for the human race—"times of restoration" of lost blessings and possessions. Jesus and his Apostles preached that this gospel of blessing is for the vast majority; not a message of woe for all except a few.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD which they heralded is the same as foretold by the prophets in such thrilling and positive language. Not a mysterious, intangible arrangement having no meaning for the toiler and sufferer, but one which will bring such practical and understandable things as complete health, beautiful homes, luxuriant vegetation, sublime climate, righteous laws, and—greatest of all—unending life upon the earth.

THE SCRIPTURES are clear in their proclamation that many people will be so favored as to live through the present transition period when mankind passes from the thralldom of Satan's misrule to the glorious liberty of the kingdom of God, and these will actually never die. It is your duty and privilege to inform yourself concerning the cause of the present universal unrest and the wonderful blessings to follow by attending the lectures by

FANS WILL MEET THURSDAY NIGHT FOR BALL CONFAB

Fans of Albany and Decatur, together with players and prospective team managers, have been invited to attend a meeting at the Y. M. C. A.
Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock when it is hoped that some plan may be adopted whereby the Twin Cities may have baseball this year.

It was declared today that there is little or no likelihood of the Alabama-Tennessee league adopting a schedule this year and the Twin Cities must rely on either semi-professional or amateur baseball for their entertainment during the summer.

A city league was started successfully last year, but was withdrawn after Albany-Decatur entered the A-T. loop. It is possible that the old city circuit, with additions, may be revived for this year. It is understood that there is a possibility of Austinville, Hartselle and Belle Mina-Mooreville being invited to join.
Either point could be easily reached by motor for the games.

THIS AND THAT, HERE AND THERE

By J. ADLAI WEST

Most every one knows how beautiful the Alabama wild honeysuckle. Along the creeks and mountain sides this annual fragrant bloom is admired and much sought by all flowers lovers. It is usually one of the first to make its appearance each spring, and the flowers are so fragrant and inviting that the desire is there each recurring season to go out among the wilds and gather nice bouquets to carry in to enliven and beautify the home. Many nice bunches of this fragrant blossom have been seen in the hands of children during the past week.

At a point between here and Biningham there are great quantities along the creek-ways, and one who admires it in passing on the trains is tempted to jump up, pull the bell cord and get off and ramble awhile and listen to the voices of nature in their natural haunts, and gather while this fragrant and pretty wild flower.

Aside from its fragrance it is beautiful to behold. The stock shrub, lined with pink blossoms in variegated colors, each vying with the other to be more beautiful and fragrant, lends an enchantment to the eye that is most pleasing. In a bouquet carried to the sick room it speaks eloquently and helps to dispel the shadows that rather around the sick couch. Flowers have and carry a message; silent, at it is there just the same. They have their hours of sleep also. Many have noticed the drooping heads of lowers after the day is done, each having an attitude of repose. Each morning they have an awakened attitude, and stand erect after a night of sleep, and bathe their faces each morning with the dew of the night. Flowers are beautiful; they are appealing.
Every individual indeed who cannot appreciate and admire flowers.

Life is a stage upon which all are actors, whether conscious of it or not.
Life is a garden in which the sweetest flowers grow, and along its pleasant paths one may walk and partake of its beauty at will, plucking its beautiful flowers and strewing them in the pathway of others. Life is a horn infested way as well, where tender feet may be pricked with poisonous points from the tree of wrong doing, bringing sorrow and remorse.
Life is a highway along which the children of men pass from the cradle to the grave; each step along the way ringing one to avenues of joy, and hope, and light, or leading to those where the star is most dim and where hope is least known. Life is a hill on which every traveler of time must ascend; many reach its summit; many fail to gain its crest, and fall by the wayside wrecks of what promised immortality. He who fights the battle persistently and patiently as the tedious journey to the top is made, looks confidently down the long slope to its sunset and its ending, and complacently draws the draperies of his couch around him and lies down to pleasant dreams. Such a life is not confused by the doubt and confusion which abounds in the world, and is not perturbed by the isms and cisms that bound on every hand. His hope is sure and steadfast, unmovable; along the charted avenues wrought among the hills of Judea; by the sea of Galilee; on the Mount of Olives; along the arico road; up the rocky slope where Abraham led his offspring to offer as

DEVELOPMENT OF TENNESSEE URGED BY COL. BARTON

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Development of the Tennessee river as a transportation artery was urged before the senate agricultural committee today by Colonel W. J. Barton, army engineer, in charge of the Muscle Shoals project.

Colonel Barton declared that the completion of the dam at Muscle Shoals will open 340 miles of waterway, having a minimum depth of six feet. Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, chairman of the committee, joined with the army engineer in recommending further development of the river around Chattanooga.

These improvements, it was stated, would extend navigation 464 miles.

HEALTH UNIT VOTED APPROPRIATION OF $5,000 BY COUNTY

The county health unit was voted an appropriation of $5,000 by the board of revenue at its Wednesday morning session. The matter was called up at the Tuesday session of the board, when Commissioner Dunnaway asked time in which to consult the wishes of his people in regard to the appropriation and how they felt in regard to the work being done. After the investigation was made she voted for the continuance of it and the appropriation. Those voting against the appropriation were Messrs. Harvey and Gurley, with Messrs. McCullough and Dunnaway for it. It being a tie vote, Judge L. P. Troup cast the deciding vote.

The appropriation carried and the health work will continue over the county as in the past under the direction of County Health Officer B. F. Austin.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, April 11.—Undoubtedly New York's most interesting group of residents is composed of 57 men. They are consuls or consuls general from as many countries, and they represent not only the whole of the civilized world, but the semi-barbaric as well. A number of them have private telephone numbers and cannot even be located in that haven of information, the telephone book. Plans are being considered for a consular association to bind them closer together and to give them an authoritative standing which for some reason they have not gained here, they say. Many European posts are more attractive consular positions because of that very fact. "In Europe we have the same authority we have here," explained one of these foreign representatives, "but there we enjoy a certain amount of recognition which we do not have here. I am convinced that many New Yorkers look upon a consul as a man whose duties are finished when he has signed a passport."

Religious subjects are all that interest New York's child artist, 11-year-old Marie Kempton whose picture, "Under the Palms," won a prize at last year's Independent Artists' Exhibit. Marie has drawn pictures ever since she was old enough to sit beside her father in the organ loft while he played for the church service. Evidently the atmosphere of those hours entered her artistic soul to the exclusion of all other themes. Two years ago, she was about to enter the lists for the Chandler prize with studies abroad, but art critics advised against that forced training at her age.

Not only spring but summer seems to be in our midst. Coney Island is the hand that turns our calendar leaves here and last Sunday over 125,000 persons visited that summer-time resort, while at least 1,000 of them took a dip in the ocean.

The National Sculpture Society has formulated plans for an exhibition of sculpture and horticulture on the Central Park lawn next autumn.

There is no spot on this terrestrial globe where a woman may not safely go alone, provided only that she is accompanied by common sense, declares Gertrude Emerson, who has just returned from two years of traveling around the world. The small but intrepid Miss Emerson is associate editor of "Asia" and in her wanderings she gave special time and attention to the less frequented parts of the world, where one would most gasp at the thought of a lone American woman making her way. She traveled by camel, elephant, sampan, horseback, train, motor, ship, airplane and canoe, and she worried her friends to death most of the time, of course. "I had warnings all along the way," she says. "Everyone told me that the next lap of my trip was one which no woman could undertake alone. But I never even had a fright."

Hotel lobbies! Does anything belong more wholly to our time than the modern hotel lounge? There was and not so very long ago, when a hotel was a place where one went when business compelled and where ladies rarely were seen alone. Today the hotel is almost a public utility, a community center, with women on every hand. The lobbies are now show places of beauty and fashion, with hundreds of women who drop in as regularly to sit and chat for an hour or so, as though they were keeping office hours there. This is true of every

Why the $10.90 USCO is better than just a $10.00 tire

On November 10, 1921, the 30 x 3 1/2 "Usco" was marked to sell for $10.90.

This odd and closely figured price was the lowest quotation ever made on any tire of known standards.

A genuine pioneering step by the makers of U. S. Tires.

Now comes a lot of different $10.90 tires being rushed into the market. "Special" tires. "New" treads.

Unfamiliar to look at—with perhaps an atmosphere of having been made to meet the price.

But the "Usco" still occupies a place by itself. A good old standby on millions of cars for years. Better than it ever was.

Still putting the emphasis on honest quality, even if it does sell for only ten dollars and ninety cents.

The $10.90 tire with the record of a proven product.

The tire that people still buy for the dignity of its quality regardless of the low amount they pay.
